The very best remedy that can be compounded from our present knowledge of drugs, for colds, coughs, asthma, bronchitis and other lung diseases, is Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. It has cured many cases of consumption when all other remedies had failed. A single spoonful will cure an ordinary cough or cold and give instant relief to asthma. It is soothing, healing and strengthening to throat and lungs and is very pleasing to take.

It is amusing to see people with their faces drawn as if they had swallowed a feather and it was tickling their lungs and they would be happy if they could only sneeze. Now, there is no need of "making faces." A bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will draw your faces back into a smile.

It is the only true blood purifier and strengthener of mind and body. No other remedy equals it.

HENRY M. TELLER.

The election of the present secretary of the interior, Henry M. Teller, to represent the state of Colorado in the coming United States senate, was not a surprise to those who know of his straightforward career as a public man. Secretary Teller has been a resident of the state of Colorado since 1861, having moved there in that year from New York state, where he was born. He has been a conspicuous figure in Colorado enterprises; was president of the Colorado Central railroad for five years prior to 1870. With his brother William he has built up a lucrative law practice in the city of Denver.

A Discouraged Journalist.
(Drake's Traveler's Magazine.)

Last night I was assigned to report a fire over on the west side, and I wrote it up in grand style, and made a half column article of it. I began it in this way: "Suddenly on the still night air rang the shrill cry of fire, and at the same moment the little licking tongue of flame, whose light play along the roof's edge had caught the eye of the midnight watcher, leaped forth, no longer playful, but fierce and angry in its thirst and greed. Like glowing, smoky demons the lurid flames entwined the doomed building; in venomous hisses and spouts the flames shot into the overhanging garret, while from every window and door poured a dense sulphurous smoke, the deadly suffocating breath of an imprisoned fiend."

"I went on in that style for half a column," said the reporter, "and this is what showed up in the paper this morning: 'Pat Sheeny's grocery was destroyed by fire last night. Loss $200; uninsured.'"

ORVILLE H. PLATT.

Orville H. Platt has, since 1855, when he was clerk of the Connecticut senate, been a conspicuous worker in the politics of the nutmeg state, having served in both houses of the legislature. He was secretary of the state in 1857. He was elected to succeed Wm. H. Barnum in the United States senate, taking his seat on March 18, 1879. He has recently been re-elected, his term of service expiring in 1891.

Har Kreutzhuber is a member of the secret police. Being on his way home after midnight he observes on a street lamp a placard. "Ha! these scoundrels of Socialists have posted a placard denouncing his majesty," said Kreutzhuber to himself. Being determined to destroy the placard, he painfully climbs up the lamp-post, and, having secured the treasonable document, he reads: "Frash Paint."

Author of the Interstate Commerce Bill.

JOHN H. REAGAN.

Judge Reagan, of Texas, realized the crowning ambition of his very eventful life in the passage of the interstate commerce bill on which he has worked with zealous interest for many years and with which his name will long be identified. He was born in Tennessee in 1818. After receiving a partial collegiate education he removed to the republic of Texas in 1830, and became deputy surveyor of public lands, which position he held until the annexation of Texas in 1845. He was a member of the state legislature in 1847 and twice elected district court judge. He represented the state of Texas in the Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth congresses. Being elected to the session convention of Texas in 1861, he was chosen a deputy to the provisional congress of the confederacy, and later became the postmaster general of the confederate government, serving until the close of the war. In 1875 he was elected to the United States congress, and has served uninterruptedly since. Judge Reagan, though one of the oldest men in congress, is still sturdy and a hard worker.

Sheriff Nelson has discovered one of the crooks who shovelled counterfeit coin on Broadway merchants some time ago. The young man is named Stanley and he has worked about here and was raised in the family of Henry Baker in this city. His aliases are Williams and Feltz.

He is in jail at Lima for a similar offense and the officers refuse to give him up. While at the Lima jail Sheriff Nelson recognized Henry Stinebrenner's accomplice in the Huntington murder and robbery. He is locked up there and told Sheriff Nelson his name was Delano.

The big man who is credited with doing the shooting is still at large. Sheriff Nelson is doing some pretty shrewd detective work and his reputation has gone abroad.

Our mission is to close, before inventory, every Man's, Boy's or Child's suit or winter Overcoat, and now as the time is very short, February 1st, it will require EXTRAORDINARY EFFORTS on our part to perform this mission.

Mission No. 1 shows the Comparison of Prices now with the Prices before the Cut.
